A Message from Chamber Board Member, Daniela Jonguitud

Dear Chamber Members and Friends,

As October unfolds, bringing with it a fresh season and new opportunities, I, Daniela Jonguitud, am honored to address you. In addition to proudly serving as a Board Member of your esteemed South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, I wear various hats in the service of our aging communities. Allow me to share some insights and thoughts, especially in light of October's significance as Ageism Awareness Month.

Understanding Ageism:

Ageism, a term first introduced by Psychiatrist Robert Butler in 1968, refers to discrimination based on age. It's a form of bias that not only affects our youth but also permeates our elder community. In a study by the World Health Organization published in 2021, a staggering 50% of the world's population displayed ageistic behaviors. Ageism has infiltrated numerous sectors, including social media, healthcare, workplaces, and the legal system. Its consequences can manifest in the lives of our aging adults through reduced access to communication, financial resources, healthcare challenges, isolation, cognitive decline, and a loss of independence. Shockingly, ageism is estimated to cause over 6.3 million cases of severe depression.

The Ageing Process:

When we think about aging, it's crucial to recognize that it begins much earlier than we often acknowledge. According to research by Neurologist Tony Wyss-Coray at Stanford University, there are three pivotal ages - 34, 60, and 78 - that mark distinct shifts in the aging process. At the tender age of 25, the first signs of aging, such as expression lines, begin to appear. This reminds us that aging is a journey that starts from the day we are born.

The Business Perspective:

Beyond its moral implications, addressing ageism makes business sense. Consider these compelling statistics:

- Every day, over 10,000 individuals in the U.S. celebrate their 65th birthday, contributing to a total of 55 million senior citizens.
- Nearly 20 million seniors require some form of daily assistance, with 17 million living in our communities.
- By 2030, the Baby Boomer generation will reach the age of 65, making seniors one-fifth of the country's population.
- By 2050, the number of seniors in the U.S. is projected to reach 90 million.

- These demographics represent a significant market opportunity for businesses. Engaging with seniors as part of your workforce, adapting products and services to cater to their needs, and targeting your marketing efforts towards seniors can have substantial economic benefits.

Taking Action:

To combat ageism and promote inclusivity, here are some practical steps:

- Self-awareness: Recognize and address any age-related biases within yourself.
- Inclusion: Actively involve seniors in your communities and businesses.
- Celebration: Foster a culture that celebrates aging.
- Normalization: Encourage open conversations about aging.

I stand ready, along with my organizations, to collaborate with you in facilitating discussions about aging and raising awareness of this natural life process.

October 1st has been declared the International Day of Older Persons by the United Nations, and October 7th is recognized as Ageism Awareness Day by the American Society on Aging. As we each embark on our unique aging journeys, it's important to contemplate how we want that experience to unfold and what actions we can take to shape a brighter future.

A Message from the CEO of the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce

Dear Chamber Members and Friends,

I hope this message finds you all in high spirits. It's been a dynamic and fruitful month for our South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, and I'm thrilled to share some exciting updates with you.

Genentech Goes to Town - An Immense Success:

Our recent event, "Genentech Goes to Town," was a resounding success! We kicked off the festivities with a lively party featuring a marching band, talented dancers, and inspiring speeches by Mayor Flor Nicolas, Council member Eddie Flores, Allen Napetian (Vice President, Site Services, Genentech), and yours truly, Mary Prem, CEO of the Chamber. Genentech employees embraced the spirit of community as they dined, shopped, and brought a touch of Christmas to Grand Avenue and our nearby merchants.

Transforming Genenbucks into Checks:

Our Chamber has been hard at work, ensuring that the support from Genentech translates into tangible benefits for our local businesses. I'm pleased to announce that we've been converting Genenbucks into checks, with many exceeding $10,000 and a couple even surpassing the $15,000 mark. These funds will make a significant impact on our community.

Taste of South San Francisco - A Grand Affair:

Now, we're in full planning mode for our upcoming flagship event, the "Taste of South San Francisco." Mark your calendars for Thursday, November 2nd, as we gather at the brand-new Civic Center, situated on El Camino Real, Chestnut Ave, and Antoinette Lane. This state-of-the-art facility will host our event, making it the very first gathering in this splendid venue.

But that's not all! This year, we're taking the Taste to the next level. We're diving headfirst into the world of social media and influencers who will share their dining experiences on TikTok, Instagram, and Facebook. It promises to be a fantastic showcase of our vibrant culinary scene.

Join Us in Making a Difference:

I'd like to extend a special invitation to all of you. Consider donating your services and merchandise to our auction, allowing your businesses to be featured prominently in Taste sponsorship materials. This is a fantastic opportunity to showcase your support for our local community.

Additionally, I encourage our members to host mixers at your establishments. It's a great way to introduce your business to fellow members, business leaders, and stakeholders.

Promote Your Business with Us:

Lastly, don't forget to share any business promotions, sales, or other information with us. We're eager to help you get the exposure your business deserves through our social media channels.

As we move forward, let's continue to strengthen our Chamber's mission of supporting our local businesses and fostering a vibrant community. Together, we can achieve great things.

Thank you for your ongoing support, and I look forward to seeing you at the Taste of South San Francisco and our upcoming events!

Warm regards,

Mary Prem
CEO, South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce

Chamber Celebrates National Hispanic Heritage Month!

During National Hispanic Heritage Month, we proudly recognize the vibrant tapestry of Hispanic and Latino cultures that enrich our South San Francisco community. This month is a tribute to the significant contributions made by Hispanic and Latino residents who have played integral roles in shaping the unique identity of our city. From business leaders to community advocates, their influence has left an indelible mark on South San Francisco's history, arts, and commerce. As we celebrate, let's honor the enduring legacy of these individuals and draw inspiration from their stories to foster a community that embraces diversity and unity, values that lie at the heart of our city's strength.

To celebrate National Hispanic Heritage Month, please join us at our next Chamber Mixer at:

La Nueva Perla Restaurant

222 Lux Ave, South San Francisco, CA 94080

Thursday 10/12/23 from 5pm to 8pm

2023 Taste of South San Francisco: A Flavorful Opportunity for Your Restaurant! Join Us and Savor the Success!

Why Participate?

Connect with the Community:

The Taste of South San Francisco is not just a food event; it's a platform for owner-operators like yourself to build deeper relationships with your local customer base. Imagine the energy and enthusiasm of chatting with patrons who are taking their very first bites of your culinary masterpiece!

Prime Media Exposure:

Local newspapers, bloggers, and even a few TV channels will be present. This is your chance to tell your story and flaunt your culinary skills on a media canvas.

A Crown for Your Kitchen:

Your restaurant could be voted "South San Francisco's Tastiest Restaurant of the Year!" Talk about bragging rights and a magnet for foodies all year round!

Cult Following Awaits:

Capture the hearts—and tastebuds—of food influencers and create a dedicated, social media-fueled following for your restaurant. Your flavors could trend on Twitter, Instagram and TikTok!

What's Different This Year?

Intimate & Exclusive:

We are capping participation at 25 restaurants to keep the event intimate and impactful. It's not just about dishing out food; it's about sharing your culinary passion and narrative.

Owner/Operator Presence:

We request that restaurant owners/operators attend the event to provide a personal touch, connecting firsthand with the community and potential customers.

Sample Sizes:

Remember, it's a "Taste," not a buffet! Bring your most delectable dish in sample size servings.

Your Time to Shine

Reserve your spot to showcase your signature dish, discuss your restaurant's unique flair, and connect with the community.

 Event Date: Thursday, November 2nd, 2023  Event Time: 12noon to 2pm

 Location: The New South San Francisco Civic Center

Qualifications for Participation?

- Must be a Chamber Member in good standing.
- Owner, Operator, Chef, Manager, or Senior Staff is required to attend the event and staff the booth.
- Presentation: Focus on 3-4 standout dishes with an emphasis on presentation.
- Must hold a valid business license in good standing.
- Be among the first 25 respondents to secure your participation.

October is National Domestic Violence Awareness Month

Domestic violence is abuse that happens in a personal relationship. When domestic violence occurs between a former or current partner or spouse, it's called intimate partner violence.

Most relationships have difficult times, and almost every couple argues now and then, but intimate partner violence is different from common marital or relationship problems. It's a pattern of abuse that a partner may use to control the behavior of another person.

Abuse affects people of every gender, ethnicity, race, age, sexual orientation, social status, and religion.

The abuser may use fear, bullying, and threats to gain power and control over the other person. The abuser may act jealous, controlling, or possessive. These early signs of abuse may happen soon after the start of the relationship and might be hard to notice at first.

After the relationship becomes more serious, the abuse may get worse.

It's important to get help. Talk with someone you trust, such as a friend or your doctor. Or get help from a center for victims of domestic violence. Talking with someone can help you make the changes needed for your safety and your loved ones.

After abuse starts, it usually continues. And it's likely to get worse over time. The repeated injury and stress of living with someone who is abusive can cause long-lasting health problems, such as:

- Depression
- Panic attacks
- Post-traumatic stress disorder \(PTSD\)
- Headaches, chronic neck pain, chronic back pain, and pelvic pain.
- Digestive problems (irritable bowel syndrome).

How to Help?

Helping a person contact a local domestic violence organization such as CORA (Communities Overcoming Relationship Abuse) <https://www.corasupport.org/> is an important step. If you know someone who is being abused, call the National Domestic Violence Hotline at 1-800-799-SAFE (1-800-799-7233). The hotline is available 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, in English, Spanish, and other languages. The National Coalition Against Domestic Violence's website also has a wealth of information: <https://ncadv.org/resources> on programs that offer shelter and legal support.

If you or a person you know is experiencing domestic abuse, know that there are resources and people available to help. The first step is always the hardest, but it isn't one that needs to be taken alone.
